Click3d is a handy, easy to use 3D modeling application that makes it fun, easy and fast to model 3D objects, sections and surfaces. Click3d is ideal for creating 3D models to work with. These are the perfect pre-visualization assets for sales presentations and technical documentation. No other application can match its simplicity to the point that you can actually create 3D models with it. The user interface is simple, easy to understand and learn in minutes. With Click3d you can create models for a variety of purposes: * Draw 3D models using the pen and rotate them * Make 3D models of parts of objects that you have seen in the real world (an actual example is shown in this video) * Create thousands of models, each of them with a different number of slices, polygons or vertices * Play with your models in special ways - move them, zoom in and out, align them, rotate and scale them * Use 3D modeling only to make detailed models, or to create texture maps, animations, logos, icons, logos, etc., in order to transfer your model into other applications * Use your models in film, video, virtual environments and games * You can use Click3d to create models that can be used as backgrounds or to create animated textures for surface finishes, texture maps for furniture, logos, robot logos, business cards, etc. You will see the difference in this video. I have even created a 3D model of the environment inside the factory to help the robot design. Exclusive 3D printer What isProject Red? Click3d takes full advantage of your multi-touch environment - it uses direct gestures and touch to provide more intuitive modeling. When you make a gesture, all the objects respond in real time to your touch. Next time, try "before" and "after" pictures to get your input working. If your Windows 8 device is not detectably touch-enabled, you can also use the model rotation tool to spin an object in the air. Once you have built the model you want, you can move/rotate, scale, zoom in or out and transform it with the powerful tools in the main window. You can also view your 3D model rendered on any 3D device from your desktop. DetailsViewHolder - 3D Model Viewer in v4 - shows model as a 3D object in scene when Model is selected in the left tree view and the viewer is placed into Scene mode. In Scene mode you can look around the model, select/de-select all the selected objects, rotate the model or set a 3D view from perspective and height etc. DetailsViewHolderViewed from desktop - renders model in 3D scene on Windows desktop when a model is placed on it (in landscape mode) and viewer placed into 3D mode. The model is displayed on Windows desktop as a 3D object and you can look around it. This viewer is able to handle all the model details such as enabling/disabling all the object, setting additional view parameters etc. You can select/de-select and rotate the model and view it from different perspective. 3DViewer for Windows Desktop - behaves exactly same way as the DetailsViewHolderViewed from desktop except that you can't see the model - you just see the view of model. Instructional: 1. To view all the models available in the app, click "Open all" button. 2. Models in the "Recent" list are stored as pre-rendered images in your device storage. Don't re-render them unless you really want them to be updated. 3. When you click on "Open all" model you get a dialog with all the options for each model. 4. You can choose to view model in "Details" or "Scene" mode. 5. You can quickly view the model by pressing the model name in "Details" mode. 6.
